In Codecademy, I learned step by step, the fundamentals of the HTML and CSS styling languages. Codecademy was a significant help, as the learning style allows you to learn at your own pace, in an environment that doesn't just lecture you, but rather has you coding hands on, starting from the first exercise. I would definitely recommend this platform of learning HTML/ CSS to any of my friends looking to learn the basics of web development.

This is a screenshot taken from the Social Networking Tutorial of Codecademy, giving you a glimpse of the learning style you take during the courses on Codecademy's website. All the code is tangible, and changes in the HTML code are displayed in the webpage window's box on the right in real time.
